The Foundation for California Community Colleges is the official non-profit organization to the California Community Colleges Board of Governors and Chancellor's Office. The Foundation's mission is to benefit, support, and enhance all 114 California Community Colleges and the 2.1 million students they serve, as the largest system of higher education in the nation. As the trusted partner to the system, the Foundation works closely with the Chancellor's Office and the Community Colleges to move forward a number of key system-wide initiatives.

Since its inception, the Foundation has grown to be one of the largest operating foundations in higher education. Today, the Foundation has the capacity and expertise to respond quickly to the needs of California's colleges and communities. The Foundation realizes over $30 million in revenue each year to support students, colleges, college foundations, and the California Community College system, and has provided over $200 million in direct grants, support, and cost savings to the Community Colleges and Chancellor's Office.
