Youth Empowerment Strategies for Success
Independent Living Program

Each year, approximately 4,000 of California’s foster youth turn 18 and become independent, many without the necessary skills to support themselves. Studies show that as many as 50 percent of emancipated foster youth become homeless, have serious money problems, or are incarcerated after leaving care. To better prepare foster youth for independence, Youth Empowerment Strategies for Success—Independent Living Program (YESS–ILP) was developed by the Foundation for California Community Colleges in collaboration with the California Department of Social Services. YESS–ILP assists current and former foster youth in transitioning successfully into self-sufficiency and adulthood.

Local Connections
YESS–ILP brings together Community College campus and community resources to provide services that assist foster and probation youth in overcoming the challenges they face to become independent.

Personalized Service
Youth are introduced to YESS–ILP through campus outreach and referrals from county agencies and other local partners. Participants receive individual attention from program staff, mentors, and tutors, and are connected to campus and community resources and opportunities.

Participants engage in workshops and hands-on life skills training activities in subjects such as education, financial literacy, employment, and daily living skills. YESS–ILP staff and community partners are dedicated to helping participants become self-sufficient through earning a high school diploma, GED, college degree, or career/technical certificate and obtaining gainful employment.

The Empowerment Message
YESS–ILP is designed to communicate a positive message that says: “YESS, together we can empower youth to understand the impact of their choices, access post secondary education, build permanent relationships with caring adults, and obtain the skills, knowledge, and resources they need to succeed.”
